What is Life Stream?

History

Founded in 1984, Life Stream Foundation provides opportunities for participation and inclusion of people with an intellectual disability into community sport, recreation and leisure through programs, services, education and advocacy.

Life Stream can run programs or source state sporting bodies or other accredited coaches to facilitate sport programs for school students using the following program options:

- Fun & games
- Coordination & skill development
- Modified & main stream sport
- Inter-school sport competitions

School Based Programs

Individual School Programs

Want to try a new sport or improve skills & coordination? Life Stream can come to your school and provide game-style activities or organise a coach to run sport.

Multi-week or one-off programs

Inter-school Programs

A great way for students to meet other students and an excellent opportunity for teachers to network with one another. Schools meet at a common location for skill development clinics for one term, followed by an inter-school competition the following term. Two sports per year.

Multi-Week programs

Multi Sport Expos

Life Stream will implement a multi sport expo in a 'come and try' format where students will have the opportunity to sample various sports throughout the day.

One-off programs

After School Programs

Keep active and healthy into the afternoon! Life Stream can implement after-school sport programs between 3pm-5pm at your school. Support is provided for those appropriate with a 1:5 ratio (school staff not required).

Multi-week programs

Most programs are provided free or some may have a small fee to cover external costs.

Other Information

Membership

All schools need to complete a membership form to access Life Stream activities.

Cost for annual membership is Complimentary.
